ARGE MASTER HEAVILY FINED

Adam Hartman Draws Pistol.
Charged $100 for Having Concealed Weapon.

WILL NOT OPPOSE CARNEY

Letters From Washington Indicate That His Nomination
Will Be Confirmed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., March 1.—Adam Hartman, master of the barge Dorchester, was arraigned before Police Justice Simmons this morning, charged with attempting to shoot W. H. Lee and carrying a concealed weapon. Hartman was fined $10 and costs for attempting to shoot Lee and $100 and costs for carrying a concealed weapon. He appealed the cases to the Corporation Court.

Hartman and Lee quarreled over the price of a drink in a Water Street saloon, when Hartman became enraged, pulled his revolver and threatened to shoot. He notified the police, who searched for Hartman, and when they found him a chase began.

After the fugitive had run down Water Street, dodged into several lanes and leaped several fences he was captured at the wharf of the Old Dominion Steamship Company.

Carney Will Get Case.

Letters received from Republican members of the Senate Committee of Post-offices and Post Roads indicate that Stephen B. Carney, named by the President for postmaster at Norfolk, will be confirmed without opposition before the adjournment.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee looking after post-office matters in this section of the country, it is said, has given assurances that confirmation will be had without difficulty, although the filing of the charges against Carney has undoubtedly held up action on the nomination.

Senator Penrose, himself chairman of the Committee on Post-offices and Post Roads, took the charges out of the hands of Senator Scott in order that he might make a personal examination of them. After having looked them over it is said that he is favorable to confirmation.

And added to all this, Senator Daniel, who would be the one to lead the opposition to confirmation, is said to have assured Mr. Carney that confirmation will not be opposed by him.

Mr. Carney returned from Washington this morning and seems to be well satisfied with the outlook there.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 1.—For a short time here today the overall department of the Willard Bag and Manufacturing Company was a scene of confusion due to a novel strike. Female operatives went on strike because the company posted signs forbidding them talking while at work. The girls would not return to work, and the company would not give in, so new operatives had to be employed.

Captain of Richmond Schooner
Victim of Sharp Practice.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., March 1.—Captain Ross, master of the Richmond schooner, Dora Allison, was made the victim of a "flim-flam" game. Met here on the Southern Railway wharf by a stranger he was asked to exchange a ten-dollar bill for ten ones. The obliging schooner-master gave the stranger two five-dollar bills and took what he thought he saw counted as ten ones in exchange. Counting his roll after the stranger had disappeared he found he had lost six one-dollar bills in it. The slick stranger had counted both ends of the bill when he passed them to Captain Ross, the sixth bill having been handed the captain when he

Suffered Untold Agony

Bartonville, Ill., Jan. 3, 1906.

For eight (8) years I suffered from various female diseases. I had backache and headache, so bad every month, I would have to lie down. And again, I suffered untold agony, with bearing-down pains below my waist. My eyes pained and had large brown circles around them. No one can ever know what I suffered. I have lain and wrung my hands, and sat up in bed and rocked myself at night, trying to gain ease. I doctored and doctored without relief. Finally I gave up to an operation, but after I pulled through, I seemed to suffer all the same, if not worse. Finally I began to take Wine of Cardui, and have now been taking it for about a year. It has improved me wonderfully. I have recommended it to many friends, who see and know what it has done for me.

During the past summer, I have done all my housework and worked in kitchen and garden every day. I am now in good health, look well and suffer no more pain. My nerves are daily getting stronger. MRS. WM. TURNER.

Supreme Court Fails to Grant Writ.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LURAY, VA., March 1.—The scaffold upon which Charles Good will be hanged next Friday for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Fannie Stroop, in this county, in November, 1906, has arrived in Luray, having been borrowed from the sheriff of Clarke county. The scaffold is locked up in a box-car and all efforts to get a glimpse of it have been unavailing so far. The Supreme Court has failed to award a writ of error in the case, and unless Governor Swanson grants a respite, the execution will certainly take place.

THIEF AFTER EVANS PAPERS

paranoid form of adolescent insanity.

Adolescent insanity, it has been explained, is common to persons during the development period of life—from ten to forty years—while paranoia is a fixed insanity upon one subject—monomania. Justice Fitzgerald indicated his fatigue at the three days' cross-examination of the expert when Mr. Jerome began to question Dr. Evans about his knowledge of other instances of adolescent insanity which had resulted in acts of homicide.

The alienist said there was a woman in his hospital for the insane at Morris Plains, N. J., in the midst of a brain storm, or mental explosion, had killed two of her children.

Another Word Conflict.

"How long has she been in the asylum?" asked Mr. Jerome, sharply. "One year."

"Is she cured? It has been but eight months since Harry Thaw shot Stanford White."

Dr. Evans said that the woman had shown improvements; that her delusions were not so marked, but she was not cured.

The district attorney and the judge had another wordy conflict near the end of the day, when Mr. Jerome asked Dr. Evans to give his opinion of Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, who is to be called in rebuttal by the State, and who is reported to have said that he believed Harry Thaw to be suffering from a form of insanity which could not possibly have been eradicated by this time.

"I refuse to answer," replied the witness.

Mr. Jerome argued the point, and cited a part of the record in the Preusser case, at Albany, where the presiding judge had allowed one expert to give an opinion of another.

"Now, will Your Honor direct the witness to answer?" suggested Mr. Jerome, inquiringly, of the justice.

Justice said "I will not."

"I will not," replied Justice Fitzgerald. He added that he would not rule finally on the point until he had read the entire record of the Preusser trial.

As Mr. Jerome said the rule would cover the last question of this examination the adjournment until Monday was ordered. Dr. Evans will again be upon the stand.

Dr. Evans declared to-day that Thaw showed a degree of adolescent insanity when he wrote the letters in 1902, after Evelyn Nesbit had told him of her alleged wrong at the hands of Stanford White. The delusions apparent in the letters were more concentrated in the will and could be executed April 4, 1902, and when taken by themselves indicated a paranoid form of the insanity of adolescence. On June 25, 1906, when Thaw shot and killed Stanford White, Dr. Evans said that the defendant was suffering from an explosive outburst of adolescent insanity.

Escape Jerome's Trap.

Mr. Jerome endeavored to induce the witness to admit that a person insane from 1902 to 1906 suffered from a chronic form of mental disorder, but Dr. Evans insisted that the evidence merely showed acute outbursts and not a chronic.

Now that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is no longer upon the stand and the center of all interest, the prisoner is growing more and more inattentive. He gave out no additional statements to-day, but just before the close of the morning session created almost as great a sensation as on yesterday, when he issued an attack upon the "unprofessional" methods of the district attorney.

Through his counsel, Thaw asked permission to absent himself from the room. Dr. Evans at the time was examining an exhibit, and the request was granted.

Thaw Takes Exercise.

When he got into the prisoner's pen Thaw threw off his hat, brought his heels together and began violently to go through a five-minute's drill at "setting up" exercises. His guard looked on in amazement. When he had finished swinging his arms, Thaw announced that he was ready to return to the courtroom, declaring he felt he had been compelled to take the exercise. Mr. Jerome during the luncheon hour was minutely informed of the defendant's conduct, and made notes upon it.

Thaw again brought to court to-day several large packages of letters. His mail daily seems to be growing. He read the letters with avidity and made pencil notes upon each when he had finished a perusal of its contents. He took apparently no interest whatsoever in the fencing between the district attorney and the alienist.

CHILDREN LOCKED UP WHILE MOTHER WORKS

Willie Ann Jones, a negro, who lives in the rear of No. 1910 East Main Street, goes to work each day and locks her two small children up in the one close, damp and cheerless room. She earns $3.50 a week, and from this amount she cannot possibly keep a fire all day and at the same time provide food for herself and children. The case has been reported to the authorities, and it is likely that the children will be taken to some home where they may be cared for during the day.

TRAINERS AT WILD ANIMAL SHOW ROBBED

Reardo and Baptiste, trainers at Bostock's wild animal arena, were robbed Thursday night of $35. Reardo lost a wallet containing $25, and Baptiste was short $10 when he went to his dressing-room after the show.

The thief visited the dressing-rooms while the animals were being put through their usual course in the afternoon. There is no clue to the man who got the money. The police have been notified.
